What is Licensed Lay Ministry?

Licensed Lay Ministers (referred to henceforth as LLMs) are lay people who come from all walks of life; they are licensed by their bishop to a teaching and preaching ministry, both within church and outside its traditional boundaries. Called by God and trained in theology, they bring their life experience, skills and knowledge to their Christian service. LLMs often have a role in equipping other Christians to grow as disciples in their places of daily living.

LLMs work together with ordained and lay colleagues, usually serving within a ministry team.

In addition to preaching and leading worship LLMs may:

- Lead study groups in a variety of contexts, e.g. Bible study, Lent courses, confirmation and discipleship courses,
- work with children and young people,
- exercise a caring ministry in their communities, including in the workplace,
- conduct funerals,
- with further training, serve as chaplains in places like prisons, schools and hospitals.

LLMs also find many other ways of ministering by their presence, witness and listening at their places of work, at home, among neighbours and in their local communities.

Could it be you?

Trainee LLMs come in all shapes and sizes: can you say 'yes' to some of the following:

- You feel God's call to ministry of some kind,
- your gifts have been recognised and affirmed by others in your church or community,
- you seek to connect what you know of God's word with what is happening in society.
- you are open to new challenges and willing to step beyond the familiar in following Jesus.
- you are willing to work as part of a team.

Remember that following God's call is a process; it may take a while for the way to become clear.

Journey to Licensed Lay Ministry

Although it is unique for each candidate, the following timeline will give you an idea of what a typical journey to Licensed Lay Ministry might look like.

After an initial conversation with your incumbent to explore your sense of vocation, you may be invited to attend an Explorer's Event, to contact the Mission & Ministry team and complete the enquirer forms.

Arrange to meet your Lay Selection Vocation Adviser (LSVA). Work with your LSVA for 4-6 sessions to discuss the various LLM pathways. You may be asked to attend the online Introduction to Theology for Ministry course (1 year).

Continue to work with your incumbent and LSVA to prepare for the LLM Selection Day, which is in March each year.

If you are successfully recommended for LLM training, you will then start 2 years of part-time training at a Theological Education Institution (TEI), normally ERMIC in Cambridge.

Licensing Service in the Autumn term at Ely Cathedral.

After Licensing, training continues for 2 years.

The national framework for LLM (Reader)

Training

Training is available, usually through ERM (Eastern Region Ministry Course), or on occasions, at Ridley Hall or Westcott House.

Training is around 2 years. Individual needs are assessed and supported. If you do not have an academic background or it is a long time since you have studied, you should be reassured the training will be accessible for you. Mentors are available to support you if needed - if you think this is you, please contact: layvocations@elydiocese.org

Pre-requisites

Being part of four sessions of the Ministry Discernment Group, which run in January and September.

For more information on this, please contact: vocations@elydiocese.org

Completion of the Introduction to Theology for Ministry course or equivalent. Mentors are available to support you if needed - if you think this is you, please contact: layvocations@elydiocese.org

Support on your journey

Once in receipt of your application you will be allocated a Lay Selection Vocations Advisor (LSVA) who will help with discerning your calling and help prepare you for selection.

Next steps

- Speak to your incumbent, or your Rural Dean if your parish is in vacancy.
- Complete and return an enquiry form, which is available from: layvocations@elydiocese.org

Selection takes place in March each year either in person or on zoom, prior to training starting in September.
